The Negroes of the North.

The general good sense displayed by the colored citizens who met last week at Pittsburgh was particularly conspicuous in the refusal of the conference to make itself over to the republican party. The negroes of the North are beginning to see clearly and to say boldly that the alleged debt of gratitude due by their race to the republican party does not amount to political vassalage forever.

Every such declaration of independent manhood is a good sign, for it marks the progress of our colored fellow citizens toward a correct understanding of American principles. There are forms of slavery besides that from which the negroes were emancipated twenty-one years ago. There are shackles not of iron, but of shame and of other than the plantation type.

Let us look at a few of the Northern States which, together, are indispensable to the success of the republican party in a Presidential election. In Connecticut there were, four years ago, 3,553 colored males of the voting age. It is within bounds to put the present colored vote of Connecticut at 3,500. Gen. Garfield carried it by only 2,656 votes.

Indiana is a very close State. By the last census the number of negroes there over twenty-one years of age was 10,739. The transfer of this political strength from one side to the other means a change of 21,000 votes in the result. Garfield carried Indiana by only 6,612.

Illinois has been steadily republican. The negroes of voting age in that State numbered 13,686. Garfield's majority was 13,762. Had 7,000 colored citizens of Illinois transferred their allegiance to the democratic party, Illinois would have been lost to the republicans.

The great State of Pennsylvania contained 23,892 negroes with votes. Garfield's majority was 14,625. I was in the power of less than one-third of the republican negroes of Pennsylvania to give that State to Hancock by united action against the party which loves them only just before election day.

Gen. Garfield's own State (Ohio) gave him a majority of but 25,155. The census assigns 21,706 possible colored votes to Ohio. Less than 15,000 of these votes would have given the State to the democrat.

New York had in 1880 a colored population including 20,059 males of the age for citizenship. Garfield's majority was 5,862.

We commend these significant figures to our colored friends for careful consideration. Here are six Northern States, with 132 electoral votes out of the total of 401 in the College, all carried four years ago for the republican candidate solely by the negro vote. The time has come around again when the party which assumes to own the negro and his ballot rewards him for the past and entreats him for the future with such empty expressions of solicitude for his welfare as are to be found in the platforms of the conventions. What other recognition has he obtained after twenty-one years of moral and political servitude? Appointment here and there as the alternate to some white delegate to Chicago, and in New Jersey the doubtful honor of being considered a little more respectable than Secor Robeson.—[N. Y. Sun.

She Won't be Interviewed.

As is well known in newspaper circles, Mrs. Langtry this year has not allowed herself to be interviewed. She has even refrained from seeing reporters, and all their cards have been returned with the frigidly polite notice that the Lily was engaged. It now appears that a Chicago journalist is to blame for this condition of affairs. A year ago, when she was in the windy city, she was called upon by one of the young men on the Inter Ocean, who chatted very pleasantly with her. All at once he startled her by the request:

"Mrs. Langtry will you be kind enough to show me your feet?"

She was so utterly taken aback that she meekly complied with the odd request—which is not so odd for Chicago—but she was shocked and horrified. In her opinion all newspaper men at once became bores and rough creatures who were seeking to say evil things about her, and this explains her positive refusal to be interviewed.

Soon the sweet girl-graduate with cheeks pale from intellectual communings and a judicious touch of chalk, will make the annual trip to the calcium foot-lights and proceed to read her spell bound audience blind with a beautiful essay carefully prepared (that she may find no difficulty in reading it) by some one else. And then the stunned audience in general, and the young-man-with-the-bouquet in particular, will lie awake of nights,

"Much to wonder
How in thunder
she cornered such an array of big words and waged such unrelenting war on wax at one and the same time.—[Glasgow Times.

Orchard and Garden.

Tomatoes do not need rich ground. Green peas occupy the ground about 70 days.

Now radishes about ten days apart for a succession.

Trim the dead leaves and dry runners from strawberries when planting them.

Use the knife at once on the appearance of black knot on plum or cherry trees.

Rich ground, strong plants and good culture are the surest remedies against lice and worms infesting cabbage.

In planting raspberries and blackberries cut the present canes away entirely, or branches will start from them which will never fruit profitably, and will divert the nutriment that should go towards making strong new canes.

Extending the Season.—Some years the summer is none too long for Lima beans. A start of several weeks may be secured for them by planting the seeds under glass, on inverted sod a foot square, transferring them to the garden when hot weather sets in.

Warfare Against the Insects.—In the orchard no quarter must be given to the enemy. The tent-caterpillars presence is easily detected, as the dew on the nests in the morning show them up conspicuously.

Every sign of their existence should be destroyed, as can easily be done when they are small. Bore in the trunk near the ground must be probed or cut out.

The curculio will begin its work at once, and must be met by shaking the trees and catching the insects on a cloth and killing them.

The New City of Richmond.

Richmond has come up in the past four or five years, chiefly through the manufactures. Without manufactures it is next to useless to expect any full growth town in the South. There is one paper-box factory in the place said to employ 800 hands.

The Tredegar works are belching fire and smoke and over across the James river is a large mill works in full blast. Richmond is now solidly built up over the fire space and has delightful aerial parks at both ends of the town, one called Libby Hill, close by the omnibus prison of that name, which is still standing. Another park overlooks the Tredegar works and Hollywood cemetery has been extended over the surrounding plain. I found Jeff Davis' mansion, once the Confederate White House, to be a public school and children's voices were ringing through those halls where for years the only conversation was how to destroy what so many patient years and sacrifices had established.—[George Alfred Townsend.

A LIBEL.—This is what Senator Thurman, of Bedford, said when the Senate was considering the bill in regard to fencing the railroads: "I happen to know some thing about that narrow-gauge road in Franklin and Pittsylvania. I do assure gentlemen there is no chance for stock to be killed by that road. If there is a cow in Pittsylvania that can't outrun that concern, it ought to be killed. [Laughter.] The only danger is that the cars will be run over by the cattle. [Great laughter.] My dear sir, they carry a yoke of oxen behind to pull them up the hills. They bring them round and hitch them before the engine. There is no danger to stock. If any hog, horse, cow or sheep is ever overtaken by this train it ought to die." [Meriment.]—[Richmond (Va.) State.

A STRANGE HALLUCINATION.—A large and imposing Senator from a Western State was walking up and down the Senate chamber behind the chairs. His hands met at the small of his back and one of them held the other. His step was stately and his head leaned forward a trifle. On his face was the far-away, abstracted expression, which is usually interpreted to mean that the owner of it is in deep thought. On a sofa in a corner of the Senate chamber sat a Senator from another Western State talking to a friend. Pointing to the Senator who was pacing back and forth in full view of the galleries, the sitting Senator said to his friend: "There is a man who is laboring under a very strange hallucination."

"What is it?" inquired the startled friend.

"Why, he thinks he's thinking."—[Washington Republican.

A TRUE WIFE.—Mr. Finks—"May the stars help us! We are ruined!"

Mrs. Finks—"Ruined?"

Mr. Finks—"Yes. I endorsed a note for a friend and all we have is lost."

Mrs. Finks—"Not all, dear. You know you told me when we were married that if I made my own bonnets I could keep the difference in the expense for myself."

Mr. Finks—"Don't trifle, dear. My liabilities are $50,000 and your little savings on bonnets would only be a drop in the bucket."

Mrs. Finks—"Guess you don't know much about bonnets."

Mr. Finks—"Well, no. How much have you saved?"

Mrs. Finks—"Six hundred and seventy-five thousand dollars."—[Philadelphia Call.

"Yes," said the doctor, "you must prepare yourself for the worst. You cannot live many days. You had better make your will at once." "Make my will," gasped the sick lawyer. "Yes," replied the doctor, gently; "it would be well, I think."

"No," the legal man said, shaking his head; "I will never make a will, my family need what little property I have."

PAINT LICK, GARRARD COUNTY.

—Mrs. Mary Gillespie, an estimable lady, died Thursday night at the age of 93.

—Mr. Will Ward had a fine gelding to die Thursday night caused from an overdose of sulphur.

—As Tyre Best was returning home Friday evening his horse ran off the pike, upset this buggy and completely demolished it.

—Your compositor made us say Mrs. Sallie Ward instead of Miss. The young lady no doubt was somewhat indignant at us, but we beg pardon, it was not our mistake.

—Some of our farmers are planting their corn the second time. They say they don't know whether it is on account of the seed not being good or being planted too deep.

—One of our citizens and a Cincinnati stock man came very near having a serious difficulty a few days ago over a pocket knife. The lie and the d—n lie were given, but before the boys could get together the train started off and that was the reason no blood was spilled, as the Cincinnati man was aboard of the train, and the conductor didn't have time to wait for the fun.

—The house of Mr. Willis Adams, Sr., came very near being burned a few days ago. Two little negroes who live on the farm of Mr. Adams, went to the house to get some fire and as they went out through the wood shed dropped some coals and the dry chips took fire and got into a good blaze, but Mrs. Adams discovered it in time to save the house.

—Mr. Frank Cordier, the photographer, has pitched his tent near the depot and is catching shadows of lads and lassies. Mr. Willis Adams, Jr., and wife, of Mt. Vernon, are visiting Mr. Willis Adams, Sr. Mr. Pete Hamton, the fat man, representing the Walter A. Wood harvesters, has kindly consented to loan the McCormack men boxes in which to ship their sample machines back to the manufactory. One would suppose by this that he expects to monopolize the trade.

Cod-Liver Oil.

It is truly a sight to watch the huge puncheons and vats filled with cod livers, and note from day to day how the rays of the sun, pouring their strength upon the mass, gradually decompose it and send the dark, thick, rich oil to the surface. The oil will begin to gather in two or three days, or more quickly if the days are exceedingly hot, when it is dipped up with a ladle and strained, if necessary, into large barrels provided for the purpose. It is generally reckoned that a quintal of fish (pronounced kental) will furnish a gallon of oil, but sometimes the livers are of a poor quality and will not produce so much. At the end of the season the blubber remaining from the livers after all the oil has been extracted is used, boiled, to rub over the roofs of houses, and is an excellent material to prevent the rain from soaking through. It is also saved and fed to dogs during the winter mixed with other food. It is thus that Labrador people learn to economize and use even those naturally waste productions, the remnants of their season's profit. You can easily imagine the scene a lively one when thirty or forty men are engaged in putting away a day's catch of some ten or twenty deep-frozen boats, and the stage is filled and covered with men, fish, and oil; yet this work is not hard, except that it requires continued attention.—[Springfield Republican.

The committee of elders from the church of which Judge Reid and Mr. Cornelson are both members have subscribed for the latter a very large dish of humble pie, which he must eat in public as an evidence that his heart is again in the right place. Cornelson confesses his sin against God and the church, but still thinks "Bro. Richard Reid" a very slick citizen, who had fairly earned a flogging. Bro. Cornelson is evidently experiencing a change of heart and he begs for time that his reformation may be completely worked out, asking in the meantime "for the prayers of the church in my behalf as a sinner." When Bro. Cornelson consents to offer his back to a cowhide in the hands of Bro. Reid and accepts the offer in the letter and spirit of the lex talionis, the Christian church at Mt. Sterling may fairly regard the status ante quo as restored in all its pristine beauty of brethren dwelling together in peace and love.—[Louisville Times.

At a recent contest in a swimming school at Manchester, England, a young girl swam 600 times around the bath-house, or a distance of eight miles, while the best swimmer among the boys made but 504 rounds.

A Philadelphia girl says dudes are well enough to flirt with but when it comes to marrying she prefers a man who will take pride in seeing well dressed instead of putting all he owns on himself.

GARRARD COUNTY DEPARTMENT.

Lancaster.

—Kindig, of Philadelphia, Penn., purchased a fine gray mare from Wm. Dunn for which he paid $175.

—Mrs. Mary Gillespie died at her home in the upper end of this county on Friday and was buried in the Lancaster cemetery. She was the mother of J. W. Gillespie and leaves a large number of friends and relatives to mourn her loss.

—The Trustees of Lancaster have appropriated enough money to light the streets with gasoline lamps. This will add greatly to the appearance of the place and will render our sidewalks safe on dark nights. They will place 22 lamps upon the Public Square and principal streets.

—Miss Fannie Scott, of Jessamine county, is visiting at J. B. Mason's. Miss Bessie Adams will leave next week to visit Miss Bessie Fogle at Lebanon. Mr. Wm. Owsley, a prominent citizen of Burkeville, is visiting at Judge Owsley's. Mrs. M. S. Granger has returned from the South and will take rooms with Mrs. Jas. Hemphill on Danville street. Mrs. Wm. M. Bogle and Wm. Wherritt, of Stanford, were in town visiting relatives last Saturday. Geo. Denny, Sr., Gen. W. J. Landram and W. H. Kinnaird are spending a few days at London, Ky. Mrs. W. J. Landram is visiting her son Walker, at London.

NEWPORT NEWS.—"Gath," in the New York Tribune, gives the following rather terse description of the eastern terminus of the Chesapeake & Ohio: "Newport News, Mr. Huntington's new town, consists of an immense elevator and two great double or treble decked docks, at the end of which are thirty feet of water, and of a handsome, well-kept hotel called the Warwick House, which is, I should think, the last place this side of Jacksonville, Fla., to get a well-broiled meal. Last Sunday this house was even full and its steam elevator was running and its luxurious beds were all occupied. There is another hotel belonging to the land company not far away and an embryo town, with magnificent distances between, covers the high level landscape. Many times a day a train leaves the docks near the Warwick House for Old Point Comfort, distant nine miles, skirting the town of Hampton and ending with a station called Phoebus, after Mr. Harrison Phoebus, who has reacquired Old Point and made it a whole Florida under one roof."

One morning in the spring of 1791, General Washington hopped out of bed and began to rummage in the wardrobe. "What are you seeking, George dear?" queried Mrs. Washington. "Why, those trousers of mine," said the Father of His Country a little testily. "They are on the mantelpiece, my dearest," said Mrs. Washington slyly. "On the mantelpiece?" repeated George. "You are mistaken; I do not see them." "Oh, yes, they are—in substance, at least," returned the Ma of her Country with a gurgling laugh. "I traded them off for those lovely blue vases and that red match-box." With a groan of despair George Washington donned his old winter clothes and went out into the hot, hot world.—[Washington Hatchet.

In the last five or six years the production of iron in all countries has increased by 6,000,000 tons, or more than 43 per cent; the production of steel has increased 3,500,000 tons, or 140 per cent, and the production of coal has increased about 100,000,000 tons, or about 34 per cent. Iron and steel are principally consumed in the manufacture of agencies and instruments for the use of industry and commerce and coal is the source of their principal motive power. The unexampled expansion of industrial activity and trade is thus illustrated by the expansion in the chief universal instruments which they use in their varied creation. No staple products of industry have felt such an expansive force as these.

W. P. WALTON.

The demand for the old ticket, at least the Tilden part of it, was found by conversing with representative democrats from all over the State, amounts almost to unanimity and had a resolution to instruct for it been offered in the State convention, it would have been carried by a rising vote. No other man has such a hold on the people as Tilden and if he will consent to the use of his name he can be again elected to the office he was not permitted to hold. Since the defeat of the Morrison bill, the call for him has increased and it begins to look like the New York Sun's proposition that the Chicago convention shall nominate him and await his reply will be adopted.

CHAIRMAN WINCHESTER had a rough old experience in presiding over the democratic convention in Frankfort. He had none of the Times' idea of the essentials of a good presiding officer, namely, "a sound liver, a good digestion, a big belly and a voice like that of a boiler manufactory" and consequently the howling mob rode over him in a most disgraceful manner. The treatment he received was not only discourteous in the extreme, but it was cowardly and ungentlemanly and the little faction who engaged in trying to howl him down, ought to be heartily ashamed of themselves.

The Blue Grass Clipper, published at Midway by Mr. F. L. Spottwood, furnishes its readers with more reading matter than any paper in the State and of the very best character. It sends out as many sheets as the New York Herald and for its chance shows more enterprise than even that great journal. Considering that Midway is a very small town and not a county seat at that, Bro. Spottwood's success is as wonderful as it is great and gratifying.

AFTER the let of June an exemption law, purporting to be for the equalization of exemptions, but really to increase the already long list, will go into effect and the man who credits the average citizen will do so at his own risk. The Legislature should have passed a bill prohibiting the collection of any debt by law hereafter to be contracted. It amounts almost to that any way.

Gen. GRANT having lost his large fortune in stock gambling, some silly sentimentalists are trying to rush a bill through Congress to place him on the retired list of the army with $19,000 a year. It seems to us that the country has more than paid off with fifty lucra any debt of gratitude it may have owed Gen. Grant and that no further lauds should be made on the treasury for him.

The House could not bear the idea of reducing the number of office-holders and in consequence Senator Smith's bill to abolish the railroad commission and transfer its powers to the commissioners of the Sinking Fund, was defeated. It was a good and economic measure and if the members had had the interest of the tax payers at heart, it would have become a law.

THERE is a deficit in the State treasury of $485,000 and to meet it and the numerous, and many of them useless, appropriations made by the Legislature, that body has passed a bill increasing taxation 5 cts. on the $100 for the years 1884 and 1885. This is no doubt the best way out of a very bad condition of affairs, but the yeomanry will not take well to it.

We join the Louisville Post in the query: why don't the police suppress the Mother Hubbard dresses? They are the flabbiest, meanest, most unsentimental, lazy, plopy-woppy looking costumes on earth. No husband can have an appetite for breakfast if his wife wears one. It forces him to take a cocktail in order to swallow a single biscuit.

Er Cincinnati keeps on she will have all her bad men in the penitentiary by 1900. The average weekly convictions since the mob number 15 and the work goes nobly on. Saturday's batch was up to the maximum and the sentences ran from three to thirteen years, each man getting the extreme penalty in his case.

The P. M. General must be a pious chap. He has ordered the name of the postoffice at Damphool, Tenn., to be changed to Blizard and the people of that section say that if they are not allowed to call their office what they choose, they can still apply its former name with much emphasis to the p. m. g.

The Legislators voted an appropriation of $1,664.19 to pay for the daily newspapers they have read since the session began. The State should just as well be required to furnish the body with its cigars and this petty grab, although sustained by precedent, is a very mean one.

A NUMBER of Georgia editors are contesting in a prize pedestrian ring. We can't see what on earth an editor wants to learn how to walk for as long as he can get a pass on the cars. The railroads have evidently shut down on the boys.

COL. FRANK WOLFORD has announced his candidacy for a return to Congress and he is mighty apt to get there, even if the cloyer and popular Col. Thomas Z. Morrow does contest for the prize, as it is reported he will.

The Legislature was to adjourn yesterday and unless the order was rescinded at the eleventh hour that body is now no more. Praise the Lord, and may He never permit another such to impose itself on the State.

HEWITT is to introduce a tariff bill.

LEGISLATIVE DOINGS.

—Senator Haggard's bill to equalize assessments is now a law.

—Senate bill for the benefit of D. B. Edmiston passed the House.

—A bill to prevent the sale of liquor within two miles of Crab Orchard passed both Houses.

—The House passed a bill requiring counties to purchase their books of record now paid for by the State.

—The House passed the bill allowing jailers 65 cents per day for board of prisoners, an increase of 15 cents.

—The office of the Inspector of mines with a salary of $1,800 is one of the creations of the present assembly. It will be a decided success.

—The State tax on liquor licenses will be $50 hereafter instead of $25 as present, Gov. Knott having signed the bill passed by the Legislature.

—As was expected the Senatorial investigating Committee reported that nobody was guilty either of offering or accepting a bribe in the long drawn out contest.

—The Commissioners for the Eastern Lunatic Asylum appointed by the Governor are A. W. Marshall, Dr. L. B. Todd, Walter Scott, Dr. F. O. Young, W. Larue Thomas and D. D. Laudeman. This Asylum had $37,000 voted to it for repairs a few days ago.

—Both Houses have passed the bill giving the Commissioners power to lease the convicts for employment in mines in addition to the occupations now permitted by law. This will be a solution of the overcrowded penitentiary problem and Gov. Knott will not have to follow in the footsteps of his predecessor.

NOTES OF CURRENT EVENTS.

—The young democrats of Ohio have passed resolutions favoring Tilden for President.

—The remains of Dr. Samuel D. Gross were cremated at LeMoine Crematory, Washington, Pa.

—Lightning struck a mill in North Carolina, killed three men and wounded several others.

—The theatrical event of the season in Louisville is Clara Morris, who is playing there this week.

—James S. Coleman, a leading colored school-master of Laurens county, S. C., was hanged for murder and outrage.

—The liabilities of Grant & Ward are estimated as high as $10,000,000 and the assets believed to be very small.

—During a game of base ball at Chillicothe Friday the grand stand fell and about twenty persons were seriously injured.

—Tracy and Small, two circus men, were given five years each in the penitentiary for highway robbery, by the Winchester court.

—Niles Petty, a negro, charged with outraging Miss Vannest, was taken from the jail at Elizabethtown, Ky., by a masked mob and hanged.

—The boiler of a railroad engine exploded at Parsons, Ky., killing two men and wounding several others. The round-house was completely demolished.

—Jane Edwards, said to be 115 years old, died in the Louisville poor house. She was so shriveled and dried as to be hardly distinguishable from a mummy.

—Fred Hopt, alias Welcome, sentenced to be executed at Salt Lake June 13, electing to be shot instead of hanged, in accordance with a statute, will be allowed the privilege.

—Mr. Morrison and Mr. Blackburn representing the revenue reformers in the House say that no tariff legislation will be reported from the Ways and Means Committee this session.

—Gen. Grant's entire property, it is said, has been swept away. His wife has nobly offered to give up her private property to aid in meeting his debts, but it is objected to by Mr. Vanderbilt and others.

—East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia R. R. has made arrangements to run over the Kentucky Central from Livingston to Cincinnati and in consequence stock in the latter road has jumped from 60 to 68 cents.

—A Mt. Sterling dispatch says: One hundred and eighty-five moonshiners, guards men and witnesses from Letcher and other counties, left for Covington yesterday. This illicit manufacture is very much on the increase in those counties.

—The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia has declared the law providing for the election of registers and judges of election unconstitutional. This places the election machinery of the whole State back in the hands of the coalitionists.

—There are only three nations besides England that practice the policy of free trade, viz: Norway, Turkey, and Switzerland. Russia tried it in 1921, France under the first Napoleon, and Germany under the Anglo-French treaty, but all abandoned it for some reason.

—The assignment of Grant & Ward and Ulysses S. Grant, Ferdinand Ward and Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., and James D. Fish, copartners under the firm name of Grant & Ward, has been filed in New York. The preferred claims, including those given against Jesse R. Grant, amount to about $300,000.

—Gath says that a friend of Mr. Tilden, who sometimes hits the mark told him that when the New York Democratic State Convention meets it will declare its support of Mr. Tilden for President, and that thereupon Mr. Tilden will produce a letter emphatically declining to be the candidate of the party.

—Lewis C. Garrigus has brought suit in the United States Court in Louisville against T. A. Frazier and J. S. Stanley, of Russellville, for $80,000 damages. Garrigus was the republican candidate for Attorney General in this State two years ago. Stanley shot him in the arm at Russellville May 15, 1883. He charges Frazier with conspiring to kill him.

—A New York firm has orders for 1,000,000 torch handles for the use of night political processions in the coming campaign.

—Elliott, the murderer of Barnes in Mercer county, last fall, got only four years, when it is said he should have been hung.

—John F. Slater, a cotton manufacturer at Norwich, Conn., who died last week, gave $1,000,000 in 1882 for the education of Southern negroes.

—More than two-thirds of Tensas and Madison parishes, La., are under water and live stock is perishing from starvation and buffalo gnats.

—The private watchman at the Atlantic Garden, Cincinnati, shot Thomas McDermott dead for a very slight provocation. Let the mob investigate the case.

—Over 100,000 persons are thrown out of work and $100,000 loss is entailed by the burning of the Narragansett (Mass.) Suspend Company's works on Saturday.

—Capt. H. N. Adams, assistant superintendent of the government canal works at Louisville, was instantly killed. His steamer yacht got caught between a wharf boat and the steamer Guthrie and Capt. Adams' head became fastened between the roof of the boat and the wharf and his neck was broken.

—A New York telegram says: "During the past few days it has been quietly given out by men known to be in Tilden's confidence, that the old gentleman had allowed his stubbornness to soften down, and would, undoubtedly, before long find it politic and possible to retract his positive words of refusal."

—Five out of the six Michigan democrats in Congress have decided to inform their constituents that in their opinion the only way to save the democratic party is to nominate Speaker Carlisle for the Presidency. They will issue an address embodying their views, and will endeavor to secure a delegation for Carlisle at Chicago.

—James B. Garrison, the living skeleton who married Bertha E. Clear of Heatonville while he was on exhibition at the dime museum in Philadelphia, died last week at Union. He took his separation from his bride of a night very much to heart, and went under the care of a physician almost as soon as the suit to annul their marriage was entered.

—The episode of yesterday is but the beginning, not the end. The battle is yet to open. Though baffled in the preliminary skirmish, the adherents of the just and honest measures which yesterday suffered death by the guillotine have no cause for alarm or discouragement. If ever there was a defeat out of which the vanquished could draw consolation in abundant measure, it is this: if ever a victory bearing naught but Dead Sea fruit to the victors, this is it. The advocates of tariff reform now appeal from Washington to Chicago, from the House of Representatives to the Democratic National Convention, from Congress to the country, confident that they will be overwhelmingly endorsed, not only by the democratic party, but by the people at large. [Washington Post.]

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

—The meeting which began at the Walnut street M. E. church Sunday week under the preaching of Rev. G. C. Kelley, of Covington, still continues. Presiding Elder, Rev. J. Rand, conducted the services yesterday (Sunday). There have been nine addresses thus far.

—Mr. F. Yeiser, the Main street jeweler, has invented a transit instrument which is so simple in its mechanism that it can be understood and manipulated by any person of ordinary intelligence. By it the true time can be ascertained as accurately as by a sun-dial. It is the intention of the inventor to apply for a patent.

—Sunday's papers in speaking of the party of convicts who killed the guard last week, refer to Henry Smith sent from Boyle county for two years for killing a woman, as the man who did the actual killing. This is a mistake, a negro named Henry Smith was sent from here last February for two years for house-breaking. A colored boy named Charles Lytle was sent up at the same term for two years for killing a woman named Mollie Bruce. Smith was a stranger in Boyle county and Lytle belonged here.

—Mr. W. P. Speed, late travelling agent for the Cincinnati, N. O. and T. P. R. R. is still resting on his oars. He has received two offers of employment from different corporations but has not yet decided to accept either. Mr. Thos. H. Swope, a native of Boyle county, but who has made his home a greater part of the time for a number of years at Kansas City, is here.

The magnificent chandelier recently put up in the First Presbyterian church is the gift of Mr. Swope. Mr. Leslie Cox, who has been visiting his parents in Cincinnati for two weeks past, returned Saturday. Judge M. H. Owsley passed through town Monday morning on his way to Monticello, Wayne county, where Circuit Court is in session.

—Henry Kindig, of York, Pa., bought on Friday from Brewer, of Parksville, a five-year-old black gelding 15 hands, 3 inches high for $125; of Wm. Hutchings a bay gelding 15 hands 3 inches high, can pull a buggy in 3 minutes and is yet untrained for $250; from an unknown party in Garrard county an iron gray mare 5 years old, 15 hands 3 inches high, fine style and gait for $175; from Carpenter Bros., Hustonville, a bay coach horse, 6 years old, 16 hands high, a nice gentle driver for $250; from Wakefield, Farris & Gilmore, a bay gelding 16 hands 1 inch high, 6 years old for $215. This horse is finely bred and very cheap at the price. From Moreland, of Moreland Station, a bay mare 6 years old, 15 hands 3 inches high for $200; an extra road mare.

HUSTONVILLE, LINCOLN COUNTY.

—Col. J. W. Weatherford and J. J. Drye left yesterday for Colorado, with a view to change of base.

—The quilt sale by the ladies of the Christian church on Saturday resulted satisfactorily. The worsted "crazy" was sold to J. J. Drye for $17. Not being able to attend I have not a report of the sales.

—Papers from G. O. B., London, are arriving pretty regularly. The agony of the British nation is a sort of bi-furcated affair. The politicians are dodging dynamite—the ecclesiastics are in terror of the evangelists.

—Bill Williams has taken a lease on all the country roads, intending to utilize them as trotting tracks for the traction engine. It is whispered that with admirable forecast he has formed a partnership with the undertaker.

—Society as such is in an unusually quiet condition. We hear of a dancing-master proposing "to teach the young ideas how to kick" somebody, but know nothing of his success. The thing is encouraging, however, as it indicates a disposition to commence at the foundation and build education from the ground up.

—J. C. Young appeared by invitation at the Christian church on Sunday afternoon and notwithstanding the notice was but partially circulated, he had a large audience. It is needless to add that he gave universal satisfaction. The invitation was urgently repeated and he consented to return on next Sunday. Services at 3 P. M. and at night.

—FINE—

Lincoln Co. Farm For Sale.

I offer for sale privately my farm on which I now reside, lying on the Middleburg pike, three miles from Hustonville, containing about 340 Acres of land, known as one among the best grain and seed farms in the country. It is well, plenty of water, in a fine state of cultivation, improvements good, all necessary outbuildings, two large barns, founded in first-rate order; plenty of timber on land. About 35 acres are in corn, about 45 acres in small grain and balance in grass. I also have about 150 Acres of land about 6 miles from the Hustonville & Hendersonville pike, about 91 Acres cleared, balance in timber. Would make a good little home. Also 150 acres of fine timber adjoining same, fine lot of sweet timber on it. Also about 800 Acres of finely timbered land lying near the road from Rolling Fork to Liberty. It is a fine body of timber and the most of it very well located for cultivation. The above named tracts of timbered lands all lie in Casey county. I will sell any or all the above lands on reasonable terms, as I am interested to sell. Any one wishing to purchase would do well to give me a call.

MARRIED on the 11th, at Mr. Stone's in this county, Mr. Wm. A. Carter, of Illinois, to Miss Mary L. Cochran.

THE Louisville races begin Friday. Tuesday is Derby day and since his work at Lexington Admiral is the favorite.

A NICE lot of children's clothing just opened at the Great Bargain Store and away under regular prices. S. L. Powers & Co.

THE Shamrock Oil men are making melody here nightly. Dr. E. B. Dodge, the lecturer, seems to be a very clever gentleman.

THOSE having carpets to put down should recollect that old papers can be had at the INTERIOR JOURNAL office for 40 cents per 100.

IF the Crab Orchard people have to walk two miles to get their bitters, as we understand they will have to, there'll be some high old kicking for a while.

THE Kentucky Central will have to show cause to-day before Judge Brown why it fails to post a notice when its trains are behind time. The fine is from $10 to $50.

BY a change of schedule, which took effect yesterday, the K. C. leaves here now at 9:20 A. M. and returns at 8:55 P. M. The freight train leaves at 7:30 A. M. and returns at 3:20 P. M.

THE brick buildings which are to take the place of the wooden ones recently burned here are rapidly going up. They will all have iron fronts and be two stories high. Henry Baughman is contractor.

THE Electro Magnetic Girl, who has created such a sensation in Georgia, will be here next week. If she has any more magnetism than a majority of our pretty girls she will be well worth seeing.

THE Dancing Club gave another enjoyable hop Saturday night, which was participated in by a score or more of pretty girls. Prof. Samuel will remain another week and give instructions in the graceful art.

STOCK in the Somerset National Bank sold last week for $240, nearly $40 higher than that of any other bank in the State. Cashier B. B. Gibson is to be congratulated on his wonderful success in running a bank.

AFTER a week spent at the convention at Frankfort and at the horse races at Lexington our candid advice is always to eschew the one and avoid the other. It will save you some disappointment and much money.

A HOUSE belonging to B. G. Alford and occupied by John Ball was burned Friday night, the family barely escaping with their lives. Nothing was saved. The house was a frame and worth perhaps $200. No insurance.

A L. & N. freight train killed or maimed beyond recovery on the same day a cow belonging to Col. T. P. Hill, another to J. M. Wray and a calf to G. N. Bradley. Mr. Wray's has been appraised at $100 and Mr. Bradley's at $15.

THE London Echo says that owing to some irregularity, Mrs. Calvin Graybeal will not get the $1,000 for which her husband's life was insured in the Southern Mutual. This is to be regretted as she will sadly need the money.

TWO of the supervisors of the tax list, Messrs S. H. Baughman and W. F. Abraham are at work this week. The Clerk tells us that each of the books made out by the deputy assessors are very much better than usual. George S. Carpenter, Otis Newland and J. L. Ball are the gentlemen complimented.

EXTENSIVE improvements and busy preparations are being made at old Rockcastle Springs, Kentucky, to render its forty-fourth season the most successful in its history. Hotel now open and descriptive circulars and analysis ready for distribution on application to F. J. Campbell, Manager, Rockcastle Springs, Ky.

THE Editor of this paper as the largest stockholder in the Hustonville & Stanford Telephone Co., takes the liberty to suggest that the line be sold at public auction to some one who will undertake to run it. Managed by a stock company it will never be a success. A live man might make it so, or at least keep it in condition for work. Will those interested please let us hear from them?

ROWLAND.—We see that the railroad companies have named the Junction here "Rowland." Considering that it is almost in the limits of Stanford and that Stanford Junction or East Stanford would have been more appropriate, it looks like a mean effort to detract from the importance of our town. If the object was to compliment Mr. Rowland, it should not have been done at the expense of Stanford.

RELIGIOUS.

—The Methodist General Conference at Philadelphia resolved against the recognition of divorce for any other cause than adultery.

—An organ at the Christian church is now a fixed fact. All the money has been subscribed and soon we may expect melody where discord has so long prevailed. There are good singers in the church, but nearly every tune is struck either too high or too low.

—The secretary of the Southern Baptist Convention, in session at Baltimore, announced that of 533 associations in the Southern States, 493 are represented in the convention. There are about 948,000 white and 833,250 colored Baptists in the South.

—TO THE PASTORS OF STANFORD.—The Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Kentucky requests you to preach a temperance sermon on the 8th of June; also to ask God's blessing on the work of the "Flower Mission" in the prisons on the 9th of June. Respectfully, Mrs. W. H. Munnell, Cor. Sec. Kentucky W. C. T. U.

—The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church of the United States will meet on next Thursday, May 15, in the First Presbyterian Church, Saratoga Springs, N. Y. Last year this body recommended that the sum of $900,000 be raised for the Board of Home Missions, and tidings are brought that the sum has been realized, with an excess over the amount of $20,000.

LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

—A Shelby county negro sheared 121 sheep in a day.

—J. J. Bright bought of J. L. Engleman a 6 year old mare for $250.

—Lamb are going off lively at 5 to 5 1/2 cents for June delivery for good ones.

—The Kentucky wool clip for this year, it is estimated, will reach $9,000,000 pounds.

—S. J. Embry sold his wool to A. T. Nunneley for 20 cents. The highest price offered for best wool is 23 cents.

—H. C. Bright bought a harness mare from Nath Woodcock for $200 and sold Dr. David Logan a combined mare for $200.

—Cattle and dirty wool is quoted in Louisville at 15 cents; tub-washen, 28 to 31 1/2; medium, 21 to 23 1/2; black, 15 to 18 1/2.

—Wool is selling at 23 cents in Georgetown. Sheep shearing is going on vigorously when the weather will permit.—[Georgetown Times].

—Twenty seven acres of prairie sod were broken in eight hours by a new patented steam plow at a recent test near Emporia, Kansas, at a total cost of $9.50.

—The Lexington Races are more successful than the spring meetings have been there for years. A large attendance marks each day's sport, which is very fine.

—George D. Hopper suffered the loss of several fine sheep by dogs Sunday night. It is too late to make a further appeal to our so-called law makers but it would be the same if it was not.

—The apple crop in Michigan promises 91 and peaches 50 per cent. of the average. Wheat in the Southern four tiers of counties promises 87 and in the counties north of these 97 per cent. of last year.

—Reports to the Department of Agriculture show that the average of the wheat crop of all the States is 94 and that the product will be 350,000,000. Kentucky's crop is within one per cent. of a full yield.

—A Bedford county, Va., tobacco planter recently sold his crop of leaf in Lynchburg at an average of $47 round per hundred pounds including the logs. The highest priced hoghead brought $70 per hundred.

—The growth of the wool industry in Texas has reached large proportions. It is estimated that there are now in that State 5,000,000 head of sheep that yield eight pounds each of wool, making 40,000,000 pounds of wool for one season.

—There is a Durham grade cow, four years old, in Hartford, Conn., which weighs 3,500 pounds. Her girth, directly back of her fore-shoulders, is nine feet three inches, around the body eleven feet. She is owned by a milk-peddler.

MT. VERNON DEPARTMENT.

Managed by Jno. B. Fish.

—The past few days remind us that summer is indeed and truly here at last.

—George L. Ball was taken to Winchester Saturday, for burial. He leaves one son and two daughters all about grown.

—J. H. Limrick preached at the Christian church Sunday morning and night. He has been engaged for the ensuing year.

—Mr. Edward Singleton has made some very good pictures of residences in our town. One of the Joplin House is especially noticeable.

—W. B. Whitehead has opened a vein of coal on his land, about two miles North-east of town. The coal is of good quality and is of sufficient depth to be worked to good advantage.

—Local option has gone into effect in Mt. Vernon. Not one drop of whisky can be had at any price, but at other places in the county it can be had just the same as formerly. When the country sellers find that there is really a local option law and that the town men have stopped selling they will no doubt cease.

—Mr. John L. Whitehead is in Williamsburg superintending the structure of a new store-house which he is erecting. Mr. W. L. Jones is visiting in town. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Limrick are visiting relatives in this county. Mr. Jas. H. Otter, of Louisville, was in town Sunday. Messrs. J. C. P. Myers and George Fish have gone to Williamsburg on a piscatorial expedition.

—MURDERED.—G. L. Ball, who was taking eight convicts across from Mt. Vernon to the K. C. R. R., was murdered by them Thursday evening. One of them pretended that his handcuffs hurt him and while the guard unlocked it he seized the gun and shot and beat him so he died shortly afterwards. Four of the negroes went on to camp and delivered themselves to the proper authorities and three of the others who escaped, Morgan Johnson, Chas. Brown and Bank Smithers were captured by W. R. Dillion, of Crab Orchard, Friday night. Henry Smith, the accomplice who did the killing, is still at large, but strong efforts are being made for his capture. He was sent from Boyle county last winter for killing a negro woman. When Morgan Johnson was taken back to camp the other convicts placed him on a table and box under a joint, to which they had tied a rope, with a hangman's noose already made. They bade him prepare for death, as they were going to send him to meet his victim. The guards interfered in time to prevent Johnson being hanged. He was taken to Frankfort Sunday, where he will be kept till August, when he will probably be brought back here for trial for complicity in the murder of Ball. Should Smith be caught and placed in the penitentiary at the camp, he would be immediately killed. The convicts almost worshiped Ball. He would not allow them to be punished when he could prevent it. Ball was 57 years old and had been a guard for about 15 months. He was fearfully shot, the load of buckshot entering the face and head on the right side. One shot struck center in his eye, another beneath and to the right of the eye and still another hit him on the lip and also one in the mouth. Three shots hit his hat, only one of which touched the scalp. The shot in the eye is undoubtedly the one which caused death.

It is claimed that fewer men are excused from jury duty in Philadelphia than any city in the country. The judges have entire charge of the matter and most of them are very particular. They take fewer excuses. Deafness and diseases that prevent sitting long in one position are the principal ones. In that city even members of the bar sit on juries.

—The New York Tribune thinks the defeat of the Morrison Bill is not the end, but only the beginning of a desperate struggle on the tariff question.

A Louisville dude, whose income doesn't admit of his eating three meals a day, says he wears corns to stay his stomach.

—The House has passed the bill appropriating $1,000,000 to the New Orleans Exposition.

LOVE'S POWER.

"He was more to me than a brother, Leone; I almost worshipped the boy! He was my chosen friend and a confidant, although five years my junior. How handsome he was! Leone, your artist soul would have bowed before the fair beauty of his youthful face. Leone, you are a woman; tell me, how could a woman have slain my brother?"

Leone Ainley grew steadily whiter before her lover's wild, passionate words, steadily whiter until that dark, passionate face of hers was like a piece of sculptured marble. He, burning with the memories that had come to him in that hour, never noticed the emotion of the beautiful woman who was his promised wife.

"Hush, dearest, she pleaded, 'no woman realizing what she did could have done that of which you accuse her.'"

"But she did, Leone! A woman I never saw, whose name I do not even know, while I was absent in foreign lands, won the warm heart of my poor brother. His was a lofty soul. That woman won him to lavish the whole wealth of his affection at her feet and then—Leone, my true-souled love, forgive me that I cursed your whole sex when I read his letter and then turned from it with a laugh. My brother died by his own hand; but Leone, that woman was his murderer!"

Leone lifted one fair, jeweled hand, as if to ward off a blow, and shrank back.

"Oh, do not say that, Lee," she cried. "Spare her, my beloved!"

"Nay, Leone. Were she at my feet I'd spurn her as a thing defiled, for her soul is red—red with the blood of my brother!"

"Lee, for God's sake!" she sprang from her seat and began pacing the long room, a tall, queenly, dusky girl, with great Spanish eyes, now burning with an unreal flame, and perfect lips, ashen with pain.

Lee Douglas looked at the beautiful, troubled face in some surprise.

"Does it shock you thus to find me savage in my hatred of that unknown woman, Leone?" he asked. "Come my darling, I'll forget her for this hour. Come back to your seat and teach me to forget all things, save my love for you. It is the one passion that is greater than my hatred of her."

"Is it great enough to win pardon for her?" Leone asked, pausing before him in her sweeping robe of velvet, the jewels flashing on her outstretched hands. He left his seat and took the fair hands in his, holding them to his bosom.

"My darling," he said, I give you the only love of my one-and-thirty years. It is as strong as the heart that holds it, lasting as my life. But my memory holds another love—not less strong and true—that of brother for brother. I knelt at my brother's grave one week ago, far back among the shadows of my native hills. While I live I shall hate the woman who wrecked that fair young life, even though we never meet. No power on earth can win me to forgive her!"

Leone wrenched free her trembling hands and flung them over her pale, pain-wrought face.

"Do not let this trouble you, my darling," he said; "nothing can come between our hearts; we are all the world to each other. Why should the sin of another woman blanch your cheek, Leone?"

"Another woman?" she cried out passionately. "Oh, Lee, should you find I was that woman, what would you do? Would you remember love only?"

A shiver ran over the man's form. "I would tear the love I bear you from my heart's centre, although it bled to death!"

"Lee, will you listen to me? Listen patiently, believing, gently if you can?"

"My darling, what is it?"

"Lee, be merciful! I knew your brother."

"Leone!" He sprang forward and caught her by the wrist; a fierce, mad gleam was in his eyes. "Leone, it was not—you!"

"Lee, be merciful," she pleaded again, her cold lips moving slowly. "I was a thoughtless girl, your brother a pleasant friend. I spent that summer near your old home and there we met. I, with my artist's taste, felt the thrill of his beauty. He loved me, Lee, won by no art, for I thought of him but as a handsome boy, who was my friend. Lee, you hurt my arm!"

"I could not give him love for love for he was not my destiny. When the summer was over I told him this and he reproached me, calling me cold and heartless, accused me of winning his love by the falsehood I had practiced when I had called him friend."

"Lee, God hears me, and He knows how true my words are—never dreamed of the love it was my fate to awaken! They told me of his death and I felt the sin was not mine, although in a last, mad letter he accused me of slaying him."

She paused a moment, but he did not speak; such agony as he then endured could find no words.

"I love you, Lee," she went on, her voice shaking. "I love you as few women are doomed to love. Were you the victim of an adverse fortune, soiled even by the stains of sin, I still should love you, clinging to you, following you. Is your love as great?"

She had controlled the wild passion of her nature and held it now in check; her great, shadowed eyes searched his white face for a softened line. As if suddenly becoming conscious of holding them, Lee flung the fair hands from him and spoke in hoarse, suppressed tones.

"It was your hand, then, that slew the one being I loved before I met you. It is to you I owe the anguish of the past two years! And yet you offer me the mockery of your worthless love!"

Leone shrank from him, but her eyes met the burning flame in his haughtily.

"Worthless!" she repeated bitterly! "Worthless to you that it could not meet the impetuous passion of your brother's boyhood! Lee, if you can be not merciful you shall be just! I am without the shadow of that sin!" She held out her hands to him, but he thrust them aside and dashed from the room.

She stood where he had left her, dumb-stricken.

A year goes swiftly by when one is happy or content, but to Leone Ainley, in her city home—the pale, proud woman; to Lee Douglas, the aimless wanderer—the long months had been bitter years.

"She did not love you," he thought, standing above the quiet mound. "Had she done so you had not died and I—I, whom she did love, envy you, my brother!"

Urged by one of the sudden impulses that govern our lives, he went to her at last, that he might see the proud, beautiful face that had been so dear to him.

She came to him, her dark face coldly beautiful, her dusky eyes full of deep shadow; came to stand within the room and greet him as a stranger.

Again a powerful impulse swayed him, but he struggled against it one moment, the next he was kneeling at her feet, clinging to her hands.

"Forgive me, Leone," he pleaded, brokenly. "I can not live without you! Forgive me, my beloved!"

And she remembered not that there had been a time when she too had pleaded, only to be thrust aside, all was forgotten, save the love which, once having birth, was undying in the grand, true heart of Leone Ainley, as she took the bent head to her bosom and touched her lips to the brow of her lover.

Wonderful Insect Eyes.

Physicians call attention to the increasing instances of defective or imperfect sight occurring in civilized countries and attribute it to various conditions of modern life, overwork of the eyes in childhood, the study of books in small print, the habit of reading by imperfect light, and many other causes. It appears certain that in the matter of eyesight the savage has usually the advantage of the civilized man. The gift of sight is one very unequally distributed among the animal world. Some creatures enjoy it in excess, like the eagle; others are totally deprived of it, like the earthworm. In many other instances the sense of sight, if not actually lacking, is extremely imperfect, as in the case of the mole. Insects are in many cases far more richly endowed with eyes than even birds and beasts. The little creature called a whirligig (Gyrinus nauticus) which skims about on the surface of standing water, is furnished with a double set of eyes, the upper portion of the eyes (fitted for seeing in the air) being placed in the upper portion of the head and the lower portion of the eyes (fitted for seeing in the water) in the lower portion of the head, a thin division separating the two. Spiders possess six eyes—some species eight; centipedes twenty, while the eyes of many insects (bees, butterflies, dragon-flies) are composed of a number of facets, each eye being, in fact, a cluster of eyes. Dr. Hook counted 14,000 of these facets in the eye of a dragon-fly, and Leuewenhoek found as many as 12,544 in another specimen of the same species. The latter naturalist adapted one of the eyes of a dragon-fly so as to be able to see objects through it by means of a microscope and found that he could view the steeple of a church 299 feet high and 750 feet from the place where he stood; he could also distinguish if the door of a house, at the same distance, was open or shut. Fleas' eyes diminish as well as multiply objects, as was discovered by the naturalist, Puget, by performing a similar experiment to that of Leuewenhoek. "A soldier viewed through it represented an army of pygmies; * * * the flame of a candle seemed the illumination of a thousand lamps."

Blind or imperfectly sighted human beings may think with envy of the beautiful provisions of visual organs bestowed by Nature on some of her children; and yet many creatures live happily with but a small share of the blessings of sight. In some of the insects which possess the largest share of visual organs, some sense—taste, hearing, or touch—is deficient. Huber believes their sense of both hearing and taste to be imperfect. On the other hand the blind earthworm will retreat rapidly into its hole if the light of a candle is thrown upon it, its sense of hearing or smell warning it of the approach of the danger it cannot see. A bat's senses of touch, hearing and smell are so acute that it depends little on the aid of its eyes. Spallanzani tested this by the cruel experiment of destroying the sight of several bats, and then setting them free. In their flight through the room they avoided even the smallest thread placed to obstruct their way. Latreille, the French naturalist, states that there is a species of ants which are entirely blind, but pursue the same mode of life as their sighted brethren.—[London Globe.]

The largest European mail ever dispatched from New York was recently taken out by the German steamship Elder. It consisted of 399 letters and 226 newspapers; total, 625 bags, of which 297 were from New Zealand and Australia. The remainder was made up at the New York office and contained 156,236 ordinary letters and 8,906 registered articles. The largest previous dispatch was by the Alaska, which on the 10th of June last year took 523 bags of mail matter.—[New York Letter.]

A large pearl, said to be worth £20,000, now on exhibition in England was found in an oyster contained in a barrel bought to use as fertilizer. Its owner, when he first saw it, fancied it might be something unusual, but was not very solicitous about it and left it under a currant bush for months to see if the weather would act upon it.

How He Lost His Free Pass.

Some time ago Judge Q., of Nashville, was pressing a suit before a Stuart county jury against a railroad in an action for damages for killing his client's cow. "What is that thing, gentlemen of the jury, what is the name of that instrument of death fastened on in front of the engine?" asked the Judge with well-figured ignorance. "It's the cow-catcher," replied one of the jurors. "Ah, I thought so," continued Judge Q., "I thought so." And yet Judge Lorton, with more cheek than any young man I ever knew, tells you that railroads do not intend to destroy your stock, even while they carry a cow-catcher put there to run your cows down and catch 'em and kill 'em as the name of the fearful engine of destruction implies—even while the roads fasten this cow-catcher on in front of the train—yes, gentlemen, it is fastened on to chase your cows around and catch the poor things and crush the very life out of them."

The Judge got his $75 verdict for a $15 cow; and what's more, he got his free pass "tuck up" on his way home, and has been paying his usual per mile ever since.—[Nashville World.]

"No reform of administration is possible so long as the government is directed by a party which is under the dominion of false doctrines and animated by enormous pecuniary interests in the perpetuation of existing abuses. The first effectual step in the reform of our government must be a fundamental change in the policy of its administration. The work of reform will be difficult enough with the whole power of the government exerted in accomplishing it."—[Samuel J. Tilden's Letter to the Iroquois Club.]

The latest paper in society is to stamp or seal a letter, where wax is used, by the use of the thumb. It is said that the lines on the ball of the thumb are indicative of character, and make a pretty graven surface on the wax; besides conveying to the loved one a personal impression that carries with it something of the identity of the sender.
